Town council wants to know if it's a flop

What do you think of the Ocean Beach Town Council?

Is it successful or "a big flop"?

Council directors want to know what its membership and the community want the most, and that is why they are circulating a questionnaire asking, "How are we doing?"

Members have a choice of "successful," "moderately successful," "O.K.," "less than I expected," "a disappointment" and "a big flop."

Those answering the questionnaire may also mark their choice of the council's "most successful venture." These ventures include "naming of the new freeway for Ocean Beach," "street dances for youth," "general meeting programs," "promotional committee for business" "clean up campaign and effort to clean up litter" and "other."

What is the biggest problem facing the community? Is it "litter," "hippies," "deterioration of some community housing," "new shopping centers competition to local business," "cliff erosion and solution to this problem," or is it something else? Council officials want to know.

The questionnaire also includes an opportunity for members to express themselves on the opinion of what should be done to improve the community. Members are invited to express themselves concerning activities for children, traffic problems, and community facilities.

The next board meeting of the council will be held 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Ocean Beach Woman's Club, 2160 Bacon St. The Youth Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 25, at 4504 Cape May.

Ocean Beach PTA to meet

The Ocean Beach School PTA will observe Founders' Day Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium.

A business meeting will be held, and candidates for offices on the executive board year will be introduced.

A sketch will be presented to honor past recipients of the honorary life membership and past presidents of the PTA.

Priscilla Smith will play the guitar and sing. Also featured is a barbershop quartet.

An honorary life membership will be awarded. Following the program the meeting will be adjourned to the school cafeteria for an ice cream social.

Like to think while standing on your head?

People who like to think standing on their heads will enjoy new Yoga lessons being offered at the Ocean Beach Recreation Center, Santa Monica and Ebers Street.

Alene Willard, director of the Yoga Center in San Diego, will be there on Mondays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. The lessons start March 3. They will cost $10 for 10 lessons and will run for 10 weeks.

Those wishing further information may call 222-4741 before 10 a.m. or evenings.

Chamber board sets meeting

The board of directors of the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the Yacht Harbor Inn.

Clark Brott, new president, will discuss the possible realignment of chamber committees.

City seeks $500,000 road grant

City councilmen this week voted to seek a $500,000 allocation of state highway funds to assist the city in the construction of roadway and an interchange near the intersection of South Mission Bay Drive and Sea World Drive.

The funds would be for half the estimated $1 million cost of Phase 6 development of Federal Aid Secondary Route 731, a road which extends from Santee via Mission Gorge Road and Friars Road to the proposed State Route 109 now under construction along the south side of the San Diego River Flood Control Channel.

Phase 4 development of that project is now under construction. It will extend improvements from U. S. 395 to Napa Street in Clairemont. Phase 5 takes the route from Napa Street to the site of the interchange.

Phase 6 will be the first phase of the interchange development, including the realignment of West Mission Bay Drive through the interchange area, the construction of embankments, and completion of work to handle interim traffic.

A subsequent Phase 7 will be proposed to provide the overcrossing structures and to complete the interchange. Construction of the interchange in two increments is necessary because the maximum possible allocation of funds from the state in any one year is $500,000.

KING AND QUEEN OF HEARTS

Debbie Sikes and Mike Cote, both seniors, were elected king and queen of the Associated Student Body ball at Point Loma High School this week. The ball was held at the Community Concourse from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday.

All kinds of requests come to chamber office

The Peninsula Chamber of Commerce office is a busy place, according to Mrs. Ramona Peterson, general manager.

In a report this month, she said the office at 1352 Sunset Cliffs Blvd., Suite A, has been visited by persons from all over the United States and Canada.

"Information requested is varied," she said. "People usually seek motel-hotel accommodations, a place to eat, a place to buy gifts and souveniers, doctors' services, where to fish, a place to get married, water temperatures, a place to invest, and retirement homes, among many other things."

She said the telephone inquiries are the same. "Besides visitors and telephone calls, the mail is heavy with requests for information about the Peninsula area.

"Each request is promptly answered. An attempt is made to keep the office open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Ideally, the office should be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the summer and on weekends during the summer," she said.

Mrs. Peterson performs all the bookkeeping, with the exception of withholding statements and an annual report. She also attends the various functions of the chamber and all meetings.

"Reflecting back on the 11 months I have served, first as an executive secretary and presently as general manager, I find it has been a challenging and rewarding experience," she said.

Fiesta theme selected by Cabrillo School

A Mexican fiesta will set the pace for the annual Founders' Night awards at Cabrillo School Tuesday at 6 p.m.

After the Mexican dinner, PTA members and their families will hear the Point Loma High School madrigal choir under the direction of Phillip Green.

Then Mrs. John Mehnert, Loma Council president, whose committee selected the two Point Lomans, will present the honorary life memberships to the California Congress of Parents and Teachers. These awards go annually to the two citizens who have made outstanding contributions of service to the youth of the community. In addition to personal recognition, each honoree has a check for $25 submitted in his name to a revolving scholarship fund for needy students.

For dinner reservations, call Mrs. Fred Kunzel, Founders' Day chairman, at 222-1950, or Mrs. Richard Anderson, PTA president, at 222-6753.

Stolen safe ends up at Windansea sans cash, door

A safe stolen from the Clairemont Boys' Club last December ended up on a La Jolla beach early Friday morning according to Larry Munsterman, juvenile officer with the city Police Department.

Munsterman said the safe was discovered at Windansea Beach at approximately 9:15 a.m. Friday. A city employe found it at the foot of Neptune and Fern Glen Streets.

The safe originally contained about $150, according to Munsterman. "Apparently the door was cut off with a cutting torch," he said. "The safe was probably pushed over the cliff Thursday night or early Friday morning."

POLICE SERGEANT SAYS

Citizen involvement needed to help halt OB drug problems

The problem of drug abuse in Ocean Beach can only be solved "if every citizen in the community becomes involved," according to Sgt. Robert Augustine of the city Police Department's community relations division.

Augustine took part in an informal discussion on problems which plague the Ocean Beach business area with members of the Ocean Beach Town Council's ad hoc committee Thursday.

Committee members determined that the abundance of narcotics here brings an "undesirable type of person into the community," according to Fran Hanks, executive director of the town council. "These people frequently do not work, panhandle and accost citizens on Newport Avenue and vicinity. One committee member said he had never seen anyone molested, but he agreed that panhandling was a nuisance," she said.

A large part of the meeting was spent in discussion with Sgt. Augustine. He told the committee that conditions can only be improved with the full support and interest of the citizenry.

He said the type of action that local residents should take is to assist police by reporting such things as panhandling. Panhandling is a violation of local laws, he said.

Residents should be willing to serve as witness against these panhandlers if they wish to rid the community of this element, according to Augustine.

Mrs. Hanks said committee members discussed local young people since "their involvement in the community is also of concern to the community."

Augustine made favorable comments about street dances held here. He said they caused no police problem, were well-attended and well-supervised by both young people and adults.

Augustine displayed charts indicating the rise in drug use in San Diego as reflected in the number of arrests made by police. In 1963 there were 23 marijuana arrests in the city.

There were 21 arrests for dangerous drugs in 1963. In 1968 there were 734.

Committee members attempted to define the type of people trying to create problems here. They decided that the true "head" or confirmed drug user was "undesirable." They discussed "flower children," some of whom are weekend hippies and otherwise good citizens. These were not considered necessarily undesirable.

Request bay use for hydros

A request that several areas of Mission Bay Park be set aside for use by Mission Bay Associates during two major aquatic events this year was referred to its Mission Bay Committee by the city Park and Recreation Board this week.

Wally Featheringill, president of Mission Bay Associates, made the request. He asked that East and West Vacation Isle, Crown Point Shores, and Fiesta Isle be turned over to the associates for use during the San Diego Cup Unlimited Hydroplane Race Sept. 23-28 and for the World Inboard Championships Oct. 1-5.

Pits for the racing boats have been established at East Vacation Isle. The other areas to be set aside would be for paid parking. Admission also would be charged, as in past years, during the events.

At Wednesday's park board meeting, Featheringill introduced Reg Jensen, president-elect of Mission Bay Associates, and Paul Strombeck, the new executive director for the associates.

New exhibit plans told

Drawings of a proposed $2 million oceanographic museum planned at Sea World in Mission Bay Park were presented to the city Park and Recreation Board this week.

Dave Grant, Sea World's assistant director for marketing, made the presentation. Board members saw more than 25 drawings of possible exhibits that may be included in the "World of the Sea" a tentative name for the exhibit.

Sea World expects to develop the exhibit within the next two or three years. The presentation, according to Grant, was to acquaint the board with Sea World's long-range development plans. The next stage in the development is the expenditure of approximately $50,000 on research into architecture, size of the exhibit, traffic patterns, and actual modular display units.

As outlined by Grant, the exhibit would include displays on navigation, diving operations, oceanographic research, use of the sea for food, use of the sea as a highway for ships, man's future in the sea, safety at sea, sea monsters, marine ecology desalnization, and other exhibits.

Work on the next phase is expected to be completed by the Los Angeles firm of Usher-Follis Design Associates within six to eight months.

College administrators to speak about unrest

Administrative officials from four local colleges will speak on student unrest at a general meeting of the Kearny Mesa Town Council at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Barton School.

Speakers are Eleanor Kendall, dean of students, Mesa College; George Murphy, dean of students, University of San Diego; Dr. Gilbert Oddo, chairman of the graduate division, College for Women, U.S.D.

Mrs. Ruby Zellman, of the town council, said a meeting the following week will explore safeguards against drug abuse, with Judge Charles Rowe speaking. Judge Rowe is assigned by the courts to act as referee in the handling and placement of young people involved with drugs, she said.

With Judge Rowe will be William Johnson, director of Rancho Del Campo, an institution for care and observation of young people sentenced by the state, Mrs. Zellman said.

Once he lost his job when it fell in the sea

A man who once lost his place of employment when it fell into the ocean here is now retiring as supervisor of the bay district of the Recreation Department.

Stuart Harder, 62, has worked for the city's recreation program for 32 years. He was honored Thursday at the Ocean Beach Recreation Center, according to Chris Pittman, a district employe. She said she and her fellow workers presented Harder with a plaque reading, "Stuart Harder, best wishes on your retirement from the Bay District." Cathy Milton, Barnard recreation leader, made the presentation.

Harder remembers an early Ocean Beach Recreation Center which was built out over the water near the foot of Santa Monica Street. It was known as "The Merry-Go-Round Building," inasmuch as it had once contained a carousel amusement ride.

One day the building simply splashed into the ocean and that was that. The center was forced to find new headquarters.

Stuart always wanted recreation leadership to be his life work," said Mrs. Harder this week. "He took his undergraduate degree from San Diego State College in recreation and social studies. He then went on to a special school in Chicago which trains recreation leaders."

Then Harder came to San Diego where he began working as a recreation leader for the city. Finally the city created the positions of four recreation district supervisors, and Harder was hired.

Harder spent some time in the Air Force during World War II.

The Harders live at 3350 Addison St. They have three children, John, 26; Mary, 17 a student at Point Loma High School; and Martha, 20, a sophomore at San Diego State College.

Kite Festival date announced

Ocean Beach's 21st Annual Kite Festival will be held Saturday, March 8, during the afternoon, according to Jim Cummins, festival chairman.

Only handmade kites are eligible for judging and prizes, he said. The festival will be held at the Ocean Beach Recreation Center, Santa Monica and Ebers Streets.

Nearly ready

Mission Bay Park landscaping and improvements in the Playa Pacifica area are within a month of completion, according to city Recreation Director Pauline des Granges. She said the work will be ready about the same time that landscaping along Interstate 5 is completed.

LA JOLLANS LIKE IT WHERE THEY ARE

Council redistricting plan passes despite objections

By DAVID LEWIS
Sentinel City Editor

New boundaries for the city's eight council districts were approved by city councilmen this week over the protests of a number of La Jollans.

Most of the local opposition came from persons in the Sun Gold Point area of La Jolla which would be shifted from Councilman Helen Cobb's First District to Councilman Bob Martinet's Sixth District.

Councilmen voted 5-4 to introduce the ordinance. It will be up for final approval next Thursday. Voting in favor were Councilman Leon Williams, Floyd Morrow, Martinet, Mike Schaefer and Mayor Frank Curran. Opposing the measure were Mrs. Cobb, Deputy Mayor Sam Loftin, and Councilmen Henry Landt and Allen Hitch.

Most of the La Jolla opposition was based on the fear that the changing of district boundaries would mean loss of identity as a part of La Jolla in the future. Some said they feared losing their La Jolla postal addresses.

More than 280 people from the Sun Gold Point area signed a petition in opposition to the boundary change, and some 25 appeared at the hearing.

The La Jollans were the only dissenting group to appear from anywhere in the city, even though changes in the southern part of the city between Districts 4 and 8 involve thousands of people as opposed to about 300 here. Several Southeast San Diegans spoke in favor of the shifts, which would put practically all of San Diego's minority community into Negro Councilman Williams' District 4.

Councilman Morrow, whose district is lower in the number of registered voters it has compared with most other districts, made the motion that the new districting plan drawn up by City Clerk John Lockwood be accepted. Under the plan, the Linda Vista area will be added to Morrow's district.

The districting proposal originated when Morrow, and Councilman Schaefer before him, pointed out inequities in the distribution of registered voters among the eight council districts.

Morrow said this year was a good time to do the redistricting because six of eight councilmen face reelection in September.

"This is the time because those elected will be able to serve those who elect them for four years," said Morrow. Morrow said he opposed waiting until 1971 as favored by Mrs. Cobb and Loftin.

Mrs. Cobb said the council was "jumping the gun" to approve the ordinance pending study of a recommendation by the Citizens Charter Review Committee to district on the basis of population rather than registered voters.

Next Thursday, when the ordinance is up for final adoption, councilmen have the option of approving it or rejecting it, but cannot make changes in boundaries at that hearing. Should they desire to change boundaries if more testimony is presented next week, they would have to reintroduce the ordinance, then wait an additional week for final adoption.

'PTA Laugh-in' is Sunset View program theme

"PTA Laugh-in" is the theme for the Founders Day program of the Sunset View School, 4365 Hill St., Tuesday.

The meeting will be opened at 7:30 p.m. by Mrs. Frederick Harris, president of the Sunset PTA, and will then be turned over to the co-directors of the program, Mrs. L. Gaber and Mrs. Robert Gowdy.

The "Laugh-in" skit was written by Mrs. Gowdy's father, William Mockler, and will be presented by Mike and Katie Gabel, Josh Campbell, Matt Brazell, Howard Lynch, Paula Horwitz, Ann Laddon, Frank Gowdy and Jim Gunther, fifth and sixth graders of Sunset View.

The PTA is also sponsoring a hobby show that night. There will be three divisions: lower grades, upper grades, and adults. The winners of each division will have their exhibit displayed in the glass cases in the school after the show. An honorary life membership award will be given to a person in the community.

Coffee, punch and doughnuts will be served. The hosts for the evening are the fourth and second grade parents.

WHIP POWER

Assemblyman Pete Wilson (right) turns over the symbolic whip to his San Diego County colleague Assemblyman John Stull who was elected recently by Republican members of the lower house to serve as GOP whip for the 1969 session of the legislature. Wilson, the outgoing party whip, relinquished the post to assume duties as chairman of the Assembly Committee on Housing and Urban Affairs. Stull's new position, which is part of the Republican leadership in the lower house, calls for the Leucadia lawmaker to assist the Assembly Speaker and caucus chairman as well as the Majority Leader in maintaining party unity on legislative issues.

Senate okays measure for state college funds

Legislation calling for an emergency appropriation of $2 million for California's state colleges was approved Tuesday by the Senate Committee on Education and sent to the Senate Finance Committee for consideration.

The measure by Assemblyman Pete Wilson (R-San Diego) already has cleared the Assembly. The bill would finance the hiring of additional faculty for the Spring term because of an influx of students into the state college system.

At Tuesday's committee hearing, members considered two amendments to Wilson's bill—one calling for a reduction from the $2 million to $1.3 million and the other to reduce the amount to $575,000 which was the original amount proposed.

Wilson opposed the amendments since, he said, there might be a need for the additional funding and also that there are adequate controls on the spending of the money.

Wilson said the funds could only be used to hire additional faculty and any unexpended funds would revert back to the state's General Fund.

The assemblyman said also that any amendment by the Senate would require the bill to return to the Assembly for their concurrence and since the lower house had passed the bill at $2 million, any amount could endanger final approval by the Assembly.

The urgency measure is scheduled to be heard by the Senate Finance Committee Thursday.

New inquiry classes set

The Rev. Vlad Benko, pastor of St. Peter's by the Sea Lutheran Church, announces that a series of inquiry classes will start Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

Those desiring to learn more of the Christian faith are invited to attend. Subjects will include "The Meaning of the Church for Today's Living," "How We Worship and Why We Worship," "What the Sacraments are About," and "Differences between Churches." Those who complete the course may be welcomed into membership in the church on Palm Sunday.

Cancer Society needs volunteers

Crusaders for the American Cancer Society's 1969 Crusade are getting ready to strike back at cancer.

Ewart W. Goodwin Jr., vice president for fund raising, said much organizational work needs to be done between now and the kickoff of the society's annual fund-raising and educational campaign in April.

House-to-house canvassers are being recruited, volunteers' kits must be assembled and countless details must be taken care of, he noted. Workers are needed to type, collate, file, and help make up kits.

Goodwin asked all interested local citizens—men, women and teenagers—to volunteer for service in the drive, even if they can spare only one or two hours a week.

Prospective volunteers have been asked to call the society at 234-8481. Its address is 1405 Fifth Ave.

The time you save playing it safe is time well invested.

Morality plays slated at church

St. Paul's Theater will present "Everyman," the 14th century morality play; "Santa Claus," a modern morality play, and a verse choir reading of the introduction to Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" in a series of 10 presentations at St. Paul's Episcopal Church beginning Feb. 28 at 8:30 p.m.

The church is at Fifth and Nutmeg Streets. Other performances will be given March 1, 2, 7, 8, 14, 15, 16, 21 and 22 at the same time.

Keeping an eye on goals important for Nixon

By ORR KELLY

WASHINGTON—President Nixon, quite properly, has been devoting much of his time in the first weeks of his presidency to establishing the machinery that will enable him to make decisions promptly and wisely.

But it would be unfortunate if his administration got so fascinated by the whirring and the clicking of the machinery that it neglected to keep an eye on the goals it wants to reach.

Discussions with the Soviet Union on the limitation and possible reduction in nuclear arms are a good example.

The President and his advisers have talked on several occasions already about the timing, the agenda and the format for such negotiations. Little attention seems to have been given to the question of whether the same goal might not also be reached in some other way.

It's a question worth serious consideration.

One of the major reasons that talks on anti-missile systems and offensive nuclear weapons are under consideration is that these are relatively simple questions—simple in relation to the complexities of a solution in Vietnam or the Middle East, for example.

They are relatively simple because an agreement could be reached with a minimum of faith and trust on each side.

The deployment of an anti-missile system, for example, cannot be readily disguised. Neither side has to believe what the other says. Each can send up satellites to look for the big radar structures that form the eyes of such a system. The size and number of the radars give a pretty good idea of the size and scope of the system.

Offensive missiles are much more difficult to keep track of, especially when more than one warhead is atop each missile. But a major reason for deploying multiple warhead missiles is to be able to penetrate an enemy defense. If there is no defense or only a thin one, then the reasons for spending billions to deploy multiple warheads are greatly reduced.

If, after the review that it is now conducting of the Sentinel anti-missile system, The Nixon administration concludes it should not try to build a "thick," Soviet-oriented system, the President might simply write a letter to the Russians saying something like this:

"We have decided, on our own, not to build an anti-missile system to protect our cities from the kind of attack you are capable of launching. We will, as prudent people, continue a vigorous research and development effort in this field. We may decide we want to protect ourselves against a possible Chinese attack and realize you may want to do the same. Your scientists and ours are both capable of telling one system from another.

"As you know, we have been watching with concern the rapid increase in your land-based missile force. Now that you have about the same number we have, we would expect you to level off. But if we see that you are continuing to deploy offensive missiles at the present rate, and especially if we see evidence that your missiles are becoming markedly more accurate than they now are, we will find ways to protect our Minuteman missiles from being destroyed in a first strike.

"Our intelligence indicates you are having serious second thoughts about the value of your Galosh anti-missile system around Moscow. For the time being, therefore, we will hold up our decision to replace our present Minuteman missiles with the new Minuteman 3 multiple warhead missiles.

"We will continue modifying our Polaris submarines to carry the new Poseidon missile because that takes so long, but we will probably slow up on that, too. We will, of course, continue our research and testing in this area, too, so we'll be ready in case we see you deploying a heavy anti-missile system.

"By these decisions of ours, we have taken a clear, verifiable step toward slowing down the pace of the nuclear arms race. We are now ready to sit down with you and talk about further steps that might be taken along this line, as well as steps we might both take to reduce tension in the trouble spots of the world or at least to prevent trouble in those areas from bringing us into a nuclear confrontation."

The risks involved in such a move on the part of this country are minimal—really not much greater than the risks involved in reaching an agreement with the Soviet Union on the same subject after lengthy negotiations.

The one real loss in such a unilateral approach to the problem would be the possibility that the Soviets would be less likely to bargain productively toward a settlement of other problems if the big issue of the nuclear arms race had been removed from the table—and this question of negotiating strategy should not be lightly dismissed.

But it is worth considering the possibility that the forefeiture of his "chip" before the bargaining starts might, by reducing tension in the world, make it easier, rather than more difficult, to reach agreement in other areas.

The Office of Economic Opportunity is still spending money to "find" poverty. What has it done about the poverty it found last year, and the year before?

Supreme Court ready to rule on 'white only' private clubs

By LYLE DENNISTON

WASHINGTON — Private clubs, the last retreat outside the home for white people who do not want to mix with Negroes, could be about to lose their status as racially exclusive bastions.

They are under serious challenge in the Supreme Court. If the challengers win, many private clubs would have to end at least flagrant "whites-only" policies.

At the most, the justices could rule out entirely the right of clubs to reject Negro applicants, if their race is the issue. Short of that, the justices might limit the right to stay segregated to clubs fitting a narrow definition of privacy or exclusivity.

THE CHALLENGERS ALSO could lose, but that seems less likely. If they do, the "private club" approach will spread to more activities now open to the public, and a way will have been found to get around a key section of the 1964 civil rights law.

Test cases now before the court raise the questions of what a private club must be to qualify as "private", and — if it does qualify — what the legal consequences are for Negroes who want to join.

The justices already have promised to look at one of these cases. If, in settling that one, the tribunal stops short of deciding all of the most serious questions, a second pending case offers a chance for it to go further.

At issue are two federal laws — the five-year-old "public accommodations" provision written to enforce the 13th (anti-slavery) Amendment to the Constitution.

BOTH ARE RELIED ON by two Little Rock, Ark., women — both Negroes — who want to pay 25 cents and become members of a beach and swim club near their city. The owners want to keep the club for whites only, and they vow to shut it down if forced to integrate.

Under the 1964 federal law, "public accommodations" may not be segregated by race. There is however, a specific exemption for a "private club or other establishment not in fact open to the public."

The high court has never ruled on the meaning of "private club" in that law. The Arkansas case questions whether a club open to any white person with a quarter is really "private."

Many swim and tennis clubs, particularly in suburban areas around the nation's cities, have "whites-only" membership rules, but actually they are not very exclusive. They may limit membership to people living in adjacent subdivisions or neighborhoods, and they may set a ceiling on the number of members they will take. Otherwise, any white person with the fee is welcome.

THE COURT COULD rule, in the Arkansas case, that circumstances like that do not make a club "private" because membership is really quite open — except for Negroes.

But even if the court does find clubs like that to be "private," that does not guarantee them the right to remain segregated.

Then a harder question arises: Is any "private club" free to make membership "contracts" only with white people? That brings in the 1866 law on Negro equality and the 13th Amendment.

Last year the Supreme Court ruled that one section of the old law — a provision guaranteeing Negroes the same right as whites to buy and sell real estate—forbids all racial discrimination in all kinds of private housing.

Now the court is being asked to interpret a separate section of the 1866 law, guaranteeing Negroes the same right as whites "to make and enforce contracts." Specifically, the justices have been asked to rule on whether membership in a private club is a contract — like buying a ticket to see a movie — and thus should be available for Negroes to buy on equal terms with whites.

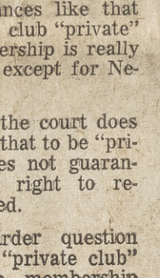
If the court does rule that Negroes have equality, the result seems sure to be a flat ban on race as the reason for refusing membership applications. The impact of that would be wide, particularly now that "open housing" laws are opening more suburban developments to Negroes, putting them in a position to bid equally for club memberships.

A suit of armor— and charge it, please

By DON MacLEAN

WASHINGTON — Lots of people, mostly businessmen, are passing through town these days, touching base with their congressmen and the new administration. A sharp-eyed reporter generally can find a story simply by lounging in hotel lobbies here.

For instance, the other day I caught William D. Fugazy, the president of the Diners Club, using cash in a hotel drugstore. One thing led to another, and soon I got him to invite me up to his suite, where I nicked him for lunch and three Bloody Marys.



MacLEAN

In his briefcase he carries catalogues outlining the carefree life of those who do things now and pay later. While much of it is what you might expect — restaurants, airlines, hotels, etc. — there are some rather imaginative charge possibilities which never even occurred to me—the fastest signature in the East.

FOR INSTANCE, YOU can rent a suit of armor in Orleans, France, and put it on your Diners card. Or you can charge the costumes for the entire cast of a movie at a shop in Paris. Without a quarter in cash you can stay at the YMCA in Jerusalem. (There's a YMCA in Jerusalem?)

You can bowl on credit in Curacao, shoot pool in Vienna, or take a White House tour in Washington. If you really want to toss money — excuse me, credit — around, you can sign for a $60,000 safari in Africa. And that includes tips to the bearers and beaters.

An escort service in London will let you sign for a date for the evening, and a wine cellar on the Rhine will let you rent space on the cuff. A more down-to-earth idea is this: A place that sells fish worms in San Francisco honors credit cards.

IN ACAPULCO YOU CAN charge almost anything, including an automobile radiator (something they must sell a lot of, considering the temperature and the steep mountains). You can go ice skating in Guatemala or have a book printed in Madagascar — no cash involved.

Even the Casbah, in Algiers, that famed redoubt of scalawags, has gone modern with an art shop catering to credit-card customers. In Hollywood one can get his income tax estimated and, in New York City, you can buy a jukebox. Also available are stagecoach tours in England, pedicures in Copenhagen and apartments in Zurich.

In Munich, you can charge an hour with a psychiatrist.

Conservative View

The FCC and cigarettes

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A predictable cry of protest arose last week when the Federal Communications Commission announced its position on cigarettes. If Congress will give it the authority, the FCC will issue an order flatly prohibiting the advertising of cigarettes on any radio or television station within the United States.

Most of those who protested, sad to say, protested for the wrong reasons. Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina was not among them; he hit straight at the grave constitutional question. So did columnist David Lawrence. But most of the other comment dealt instead with the merits of an entirely separate issue — the relationship between smoking and health.

KILPATRICK

It is important that the medical and constitutional questions be kept apart.

THE MEDICAL QUESTION IS, of course, a cause for continuing concern. Do cigarettes cause cancer of the lung? Is smoking a significant factor in heart disease, chronic bronchitis and pulmonary emphysema? Five years after the landmark report of the Surgeon-General's committee on smoking and health, and 15 years after Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond began gathering his massive shelf of statistics, the answers, in my opinion, remain uncertain.

The probabilities are that smoking—especially heavy smoking—does cause lung cancer in many persons. Even the most skeptical critic of the cigarette report is compelled to acknowledge the weight of the evidence. The statistics are impressive. In the past couple of years, moreover, lung cancers actually have been induced in laboratory animals by the inhalation of smoke.

Yet probabilities are still far removed from certainties. Any person who troubles to study both sides of the controversy, and not merely to accept uncritically the report of the Public Health Service and the American Cancer Society, will discover that some scientists of impeccable reputation are not at all convinced.

IT IS A FAIR STATEMENT that the great bulk of the evidence remains statistical evidence. There is nothing inherently wrong in this. But the trouble here, as a number of able statisticians have observed, is that the statistics are not all that solid. The figures reflect dozens of inconsistencies and cancer simply is not known, in the sense that Salk and Sabin came finally to know what caused polio. The relationship remains a matter of conjecture.

All this is beside the main point. As a matter of law, cigarettes are still a lawful commodity — as awful as beer, wine, headache pills or mouthwash. They are as lawful as automobiles, which are charged with killing 50,000 persons a year. And when the FCC undertakes to prohibit the advertising of any lawful commodity, it wades into deep constitutional waters.

SO DRASTIC AN EDICT cannot be permitted — not so long as we adhere to the principles of a free society. It would be unthinkable for Congress to enact some law prohibiting the advertising of cigarettes in magazines and newspapers; such a law would be struck down at once. The same First Amendment principles apply, by extension, to advertising by radio and TV—and the administrative act of licensing cannot validly be converted into arbitrary acts of censorship and suppression.

Meanwhile, voluntary efforts to reduce cigarette consumption are working — and this is all that government should try to do. When Big Brother attempts to impose his own ideas in the fashion proposed by the FCC, our body politic falls victim to another form of cancer — one that may never be cured at all.

Harris Poll

Public supports Bucher

By LOUIS HARRIS

American public opinion strongly supports the course of action followed by Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher of San Diego and the crew of the USS Pueblo in the capture of that ship by the North Koreans.

Fundamentally, the American people hold a consistent view that the most important consideration in the Pueblo case was to save the lives of the crew members in that situation rather than the ship, secret equipment, documents, or even the "honor and integrity" of the country. The public, clearly, is responding to values which are considerably at variance from the prevailing naval code.

HARRIS

AMONG THE SPECIFIC highlights of the special Harris Survey testing public reaction to the Pueblo case:

- The people reject the charge that "the captain of the Pueblo did a disservice to the country in trying to save his own life," by 68 to 9 percent.
- The public also rejects the view that "when faced with capture, the captain should have sunk the Pueblo," by 54 to 20 percent.
- People believe the "crew of the Pueblo showed real courage in the face of physical and mental torture," by 83 to 2 percent.
- The public agrees with Bucher's assertion that "the reason he confessed to spying in North Korean waters was that the crew was threatened with death," by 68 to 5 percent.
- MOST AMERICANS AGREE that "it was right for the United States to sign a false statement that the Pueblo violated North Korean waters, in order to get the crew back," by 58 to 22 percent.
- People believe that "in allowing the Pueblo to be captured, the captain of the Pueblo gave the Communists valuable secret equipment," by 36 to 20 percent, although an even higher 44 percent simply are not sure.
- The public rejects the proposition that "the honor and integrity of the United States are more important than the lives of any servicemen," by 65 to 13 percent.

When probed for their reasoning behind their support or opposition to the course of action taken by the United States in obtaining the release of the crew, four major reasons for backing the steps were volunteered by the people:

1. "IT WAS IMPORTANT to do anything to get the men back."
2. "It was the only practical way to get them back."
3. "We have to stand behind our men in uniform."
4. "It was better late than never."

Those in opposition to the action had three main reasons for disapproval:

1. "Some kind of steps should have been taken earlier."
2. "We should have been more forceful in our initial response."
3. "We should have immediately taken back the ship and men in the first place when it was captured."

Typical of the feeling of the public in support of the action of Bucher and the crew was a skilled worker in San Diego: "Absolutely nothing should be put ahead of saving the lives of our own American fighting men." A store clerk in Des Moines, Iowa, put it this way: "It certainly is not dishonoring the country by lying and admitting anything they want you to, if you are saving your life." A businessman in Wenatchee, Wash., added: "It would have been wrong to start a war over it. Once the Pueblo was captured, the important thing was to get the crew back alive." A student in Boston said: "The captain and the crew were very brave, and should be treated like heroes, not traitors."

THE DISSENTING MINORITY took a more traditional view. A veteran of the Korean war said: "They should have fought to the end and gone down with their secrets and their ship." A filling station operator in Rocky Mount, N.C., added: "When you are spying, you are at war. When you're at war, you fight to the death." A member of the American Legion in Sarasota, Fla., put it this way: "Even though they were tortured, they had no right to dishonor the Navy and the country."

These results make it apparent that at least as far as the specific mission of the Pueblo was concerned, the capture of that vessel did not warrant the sacrifice of the lives of the captain and the crew in the minds of most Americans. Part of the people's reasoning is that the mission itself might have been questionable to some. More important, however, is the top priority the American people give to the lives of their men on active duty in uncertain circumstances.

Missile explosions: Is danger remote?

By DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON

Drew Pearson

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Unmentioned in all the clamor over the anti-ballistc missile system is the danger, admittedly remote, that a missile installation could blow up accidentally and demolish a large area of the city it is supposed to protect.

Already 14 sites have been selected, and others are sought in the suburbs around large cities, such as Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and 20 others.

Should a missile installation ever blow up, according to Pentagon experts, it would cause total detsruction for a radius of at least five miles and would spread radioactive fallout for hundreds of miles.

The same experts have assured this column that the chance of an accidental explosion is extremely small. It is a chance, however, that some cities may not want to take.

MEANWHILE, THIS COLumn has been warning since 1966, even before the ABM system was approved, that it looked like a multi-million-dollar boondoggle. It was sought by the corporateet carnivores who devour defense dollars and by the brass hats who seem willing to lavish staggering amounts on their pet theories and hunches.

The secret technical reports raise grave doubts as to whether the ABM system will ever work. The scientific evidence indicates, for example, that the system would break down under a massive missile bombardment. Yet military strategists agree that an enemy would have to mount a saturation attack upon this country in order to destroy our ability to retaliate.

THE SPARTAN AND Spring missiles, which are supposed to knock down enemy warheads, will be nuclear-tipped. Yet tests indicate that nuclear explosions could foul up the electronic gear. The first interception of an incoming warhead would produce a nuclear explosion that could disrupt the radar guiding the other anti-missile missiles. A number of explosions could throw the entire ABM system out of whack.

For that matter, the sophisticated electronic gadgetry developed for the ABM system has been tested only under clinical conditions. Privately, some scientists doubt that all the vital electronic components will function under the stress of a nuclear attack. Example: The complex computer, which will be the ABM brain, depends on water cooling, which some experts don't consider dependable in an emergency.

NO ONE CAN BE SURE whether the ABM system will work until the country is actually hit by a hailstorm of nuclear missiles. If the system fails, it will be too late to collect rebates from the contractors.

Congress has authorized only a "thin" or partial ABM defense that is supposed to cost $5 billion to $6 billion. Some experts predict this will soar to $10 billion. Others believe it will be merely the down payment on a full $50 billion system.

Even the $5 billion cost, which experts consider money down the drain, is more than Americans spend in a year on all police, prisons and prosecution. For the same price we could double our attack on crime in the streets, or alleviate the conditions that cause crime. For instance, $5 billion would build more than 25,000 schools or subsidize housing for 50 million low-income families.

NOTE: THE FINE ART OF gaining contracts depends as much on political influence as professional competence. Bell Telephone Laboratories, the prime contractor, has forbidden overt lobbying for the ABM system. But the company's man on Capitol Hill, Ed Zillian, is available to answer inquiries.

The subcontractors have been active in buttonholing generals and congressmen. Among the busiest have been Martin Marietta, McDonnell Douglas, General Electric, Sperry Rand and Raytheon. Most of these companies employ lobbyists with excellent pipelines into the Pentagon and close contacts on Capitol Hill.

The Nixon administration is holding up construction work on the ABM system pending a thorough review. It's worth recalling that in 1967 Richard Nixon sharply criticized President Johnson for not rushing ahead with the ABM system. It will be interesting to see whether Nixon will change his mind.

WHAT PRICE JUSTICE?

At long last, after 24 years of erroneous incarceration in New York prisons, it looks as though Isidore Zimmerman might get justice.

New York Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson has introduced a bill in the New York Legislature to permit Zimmerman to bring action against New York State to recover damages for his long, illegal impisonment.

Zimmerman was sentenced for the alleged murder of a New York policeman back in Tom Dewey's crime-busting days. After sweating it out on Death Row he narrowly escaped the electric chair, and finally was reprieved by Gov. Herbert Lehman. The State of New York apologized but offered no other amends.

Zimmerman, now an old man, has had difficulty getting employment. However, Henderson has come to his rescue by proposing restitution to make up, in small measure, for the state's injustice.

Contracts in Spanish asked in Wilson bill

Assemblyman Pete Wilson (R-San Diego) has introduced legislation to require California's retail films which sell to Spanish-speaking people to detail the terms of any contract in both English and Spanish.

Wilson said the proposal would enable consumers to better understand the terms of sales contracts.

"I realize that this bill will cure an unfortunately small part of a much larger problem," Wilson said. "Many of our Spanish-speaking residents cannot read English. And many who can read English are unfamiliar with some of the requirements of a sales contract."

The bill specifies that any business which provides goods or services and advertises in Spanish must provide a contract, which is required to be in writing, in both Spanish and English.

Wilson's bill would make it unlawful for a retailer to sell a product or service without the dual language requirement, and could make such a contract null and void at the option of the buyer.

Wilson said his proposal is a "stopgap" measure and that "the real solution is to provide education to assure that Californians are not only literate but knowledgeable enough to be wise consumers."

Tax returns go to Utah

Federal income tax returns should no longer be filed with the Internal Revenue Service district office at Los Angeles but with the IRS Service Center Ogden, Utah 84405. This applies both to tax returns with remittances and those with refunds due.

The IRS Western Region, which includes California, is the latest to require direct filing of all income tax returns with IRS regional service centers.

Direct filing of returns will eliminate initial handling at the district office, where they are packaged and shipped to Ogden for processing.

Direct filing will not curtail the services taxpayers have been accustomed to receiving from the IRS district office.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By DOCTOR JOHN J. FLYNN
Doctor of Chiropractic

Q—I've been suffering for years from a bad shoulder that was partly paralyzed in an auto accident. The pain at times is terrible and I've been unable to work. I've tried heat pads and all kinds of liniments but, nothing seems to really help. What can you suggest?

A—Pain can only be controlled when the cause is removed. In many cases of upper arm and shoulder pain, the problem lies within the nervous system. A tiny vertebral misalignment on the spinal column can cause serious blockage of the main nerve trunkline that supplies nerve energy to the shoulder's socket-joints. Any interruption in nerve energy transmission here can cause excruciating pain and, depending on the severity of the blockage, a loss in shoulder function or partial paralysis. A Chiropractic adjustment must restore this misaligned vertebrae to its proper place on the spinal column in order to release the blocked nerve. Once the nerve energy flow is normalized, nature can begin to restore the shoulder's damaged muscles and tissue. I'd have a spinal examination made to determine if this is the cause of your health problem. I provide this examination without obligation as a public service. Just call the office and arrange for a convenient appointment with my secretary.

Q—Can Chiropractic solve nearly all health problems?

A—Chiropractic is a specialized branch of the healing arts performed by a licensed Doctor that's a specialist in nerve and spinal problems. If nerve energy blockage is causing your health problem then your Doctor of Chiropractic can help. Remember, Chiropractic seeks to remove the cause of health problems by maintaining the structural soundness of your spinal column. If there's a structural defect then Chiropractic can help. If not, then you'll be referred to another specialist in the healing arts. This is the purpose of the initial examination that I provide without obligation. It quickly determines whether you're a Chiropractic case or not.

Doctor Flynn welcomes your letters on health problems. Mail your questions to his office at 6943 Linda Vista Rd. or telephone for an appointment to discuss your problem directly with him. Phone now 278-2902.

DEDICATED TO DUTY

Petty Officer First Class Frank Pierce Liestenfeltz, 26, was chosen January's "man of the month" aboard the USS Bon Homme Richard in the Pacific Ocean. Liestenfeltz' wife and children live at 4927 Del Monte Avenue. He was chosen over candidates from each of his carrier's 41 divisions for his overall performance and dedication to duty. The veteran carrier is due to get underway on its fifth combat tour of Vietnam this spring.

Conditioning class planned

A remedial physical conditioning class for adolescents between the ages of 13 and 18 will be organized, in the near future, by the county Christmas Seal agency and the Easter Seals Division of Children's Hospital and Health Center.

The announcement was made by Dr. Robert C. Mowry, Pacific Beach area chairman of the Tuberculosis and Health Association of San Diego County.

The two organizations conducted classes last July and October under the supervision of Miss Trude Seligman, coordinator of physical and occupational therapy at Children's Hospital, for the 6-12 age group.

The conditioning program is supplemental to medical treatment by the physicians of children involved.

Cal Western law prof named as administrator

Professor S. Houston Lay of the California Western University Law School has been selected as western regional administrator for the Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition to be held in San Diego Mar. 28-30.

The western region, part of a national competition in which 30 top law schools participate, includes California Western, University of San Diego, Stanford, Loyola, and the Boalt and Hastings law schools of the University of California.

Each school will enter a team consisting of from two to five law students. The students will research and prepare legal briefs on both sides of an international law question. The participants will argue their cases before a panel of judges posing as members of the International Court of Justice.

This year's problem concerns the conflict which arises when one state establishes an artificial island on the continental shelf of another nation. The newly established island sovereign then seeks to exploit the sea bed and beam radio broadcasts at the nearby nation.

George Woolf 'Cap featured at Caliente

ALVARO PINEDA
Started at Caliente.

In an intriguing development, the annual renewal of the historic George Woolf Handicap will have Latin overtones for its 21st running today at Caliente.

Through the years the stake, named for the great jockey who started his career at Caliente and went on to become one of the most accomplished saddle stars in turf annals, has been a showcase for prominent current riders who accepted mounts in respect to Woolf's mmory.

Some of the immortals of the sport have won the event, including Johnny Longden, Johnny Adams, Willie Shoemaker and Eddie Arcaro, but the 1969 edition will be solely for jockeys of Latin descent.

In the past decade jockeys from such Latin American countries as Mexico, Panama and Puerto Rico in such spectacular fashion have come to the forefront that they are a dominating factor at many of the major tracks. A typical situation exists now at Santa Anita where six of the 10 leading riders are Latins, and it was their suggestion that they be given an opportunity to use the George Woolf as a means of paying tribute to the famed "Ice Man," whom many of them look upon as their idol.

A lot of us have enjoyed considerable success on the United States tracks," one of them explained, "and we'd like to do this to show our appreciation of what George Woolf meant to all of racing.

At a result, horses in the mile and one-sixteenth gallop for the $5000 added purse will be ridden by many of the elite of turfdom, all of them of Latin parentage, and heading the list is Alvaro Pineda, presently the leading jockey at Santa Anita.

Pineda, who first began attracting notice while riding at Caliente several years ago, will be joined by Lafitte Pincay, Eddie Belmonte, Antonio Diaz, Migual Yanez, Juan Gonzalez, Mario Valenzuela and Fernando Alvarez.

Kearnys come on in title picture

By RICHARD YEAGER
Sentinel Prep Writer

Kearny has Madison looking over its shoulder as the Komets breathe down the Warhawks' back in the race for the Western League basketball crown. The Komets are in second place with a one game separation. Kearny kept it's title hopes open Friday by unloading their explosive offense on La Jolla. The Komets bombed the Vikings 99-59.

Kearny shot to a 14-0 lead with three minutes spent in the first quarter. The Komets led the Vikings 32-7, at the end of the first period and went to the dressing room at half-time leading 55-25.

The second half started as the first half ended. Kearny dominated everything but the time of day.

Lee Tyler led the brutal Kearny offense with 32 points. Wilburn Strong, nearing the top in all-time scoring, shot in 30. Steve Scott potted 15 while Albie Quisumbing popped 10 points for the Komets.

Dons keep coming on

By RON DOUGALL
Sentinel Staff Writer

The University Dons are aiming for an at-large spot in the CIF cage playoffs. The Dons are not only running at the spot but now have an added incentive. They are out to win the CIF championship for their fallen member, Kevin Madden.

With this incentive there seems to be no stopping the Dons. That evidence showed as University trounced Mission Bay Friday 69-36. Four University starters hit for double figures with Larry Leonard leading the way with 14, 12 of which came in the first half. Tim Gallagher and Ken Brush hit for 13 and 11 points respectively. Don McCormick was the other Don to hit double figures with 10.

The hapless Bucs were led by Fred Pagani, who in spite of a bum knee, hit for 12 markers. With the Western League cage season down to its last week, the Bucs host the high flying Kearny Komets Tuesday and the Dons take a break from league play and travel to Patrick Henry.

Warhawks edge close to 3rd title

By JEFF HORVITZ
Sentinel Prep Writer

It looks as if the Madison Warhawks are unstoppable in the Western League cage wars this year. The Hawk machine kept on rolling Friday, as Madison trounced Clairemont, 70-46.

After falling behind by nine points midway in the second period, the Hawks came charging back to take a 31-28 halftime margin.

Phil Edwards, Madison's big point-getter, took charge in the third quarter, canning nine markers to widen the margin to 48-36. Board control was the big factor in the second half as the Hawks ran their league mark to 9-1.

Edwards finished with 22 points to pace the victors, with Mike Cohen and Dennis Dascenzo canning 12 apiece. Bob Brady chipped in with 10.

"I was pleased with the playing of Cohen and Dascenzo particularly in the second half," said Madison coach John Hannon. "The entire team put on a fine overall performance."

Bob Rynes potted 16 points to lead the Clairemont scoring. Junior guard Randy Larsen was runnerup with 11.

The Warhawks face La Jolla Tuesday in a game that could wrap it all up. Clairemont (3-8) closes out league play with a contest at Point Loma.

Bavasi sets early talk with team

All Padre players have been invited to a special pre-spring trainning meeting in San Diego by Padre President Buzzie Bavasi.

The meeting will be held in San Diego next Thursday, one day prior to the Padres' reporting date for spring training at Yuma, Ariz.

Bavasi has called the meeting to personally explain to the players the Padre organization's position relative to the impending spring training boycott on the part of the Professional Players Association.

"We feel it is important that the Padre players understand our position is unique," Bavasi said. "For instance, the dispute centers largely on the matter of television revenue. Our position differs entirely from that of other major league clubs inasmuch as expansion teams do not share in TV revenue until 1972."

Bavasi said all players have been asked to attend the Feb. 20 meeting regardless of whether they have signed their contracts. It is Bavasi's hope the Padres will proceed to Yuma as a group following the special meeting.

FISHING — If fish aren't picking up your bait off the bottom while still fishing from a boat, try reeling it up a few turns so it hangs suspended in the water. Fish, especially trout, many times will hit a dangling bait.

WELCOME BUSS

Pretty Lesslie Brooks a San Diego 200 hostess, had a very large welcome for Broadway Joe Namath Thursday at the American Airlines Astrojet golf classic Pro-Am dinner awards. The tourney, matching stars from professional baseball and football in two man best-ball teams, concludes today at La Costa. Namath is part of a New York twosome with Mickey Mantle. San Diego Charger's Lance Alworth and his partner, San Francisco Giant infielder Jim Davenport, took the first day's lead and are in position to win the third annual affair.

SPORTSMAN'S CORNER

New fishing season requires new license

With the cost of ocean fishing licenses a mere three dollars plus one dollar each for trout and freshwater fishing its amazing how many anglers risk a stiff fine by fishing without a license. Over 16,000 arrests were made during 1968 for violations of fish and game laws and the leading violation, with 5,984 arrests, was fishing without a license. Possession of a loaded gun in an automobile, with 1,710 arrests, was the second highest violation. Besides jail sentences, violators paid a total of $466,552 in fines. Check your fishing license — if it's dated 1968—you're a violator.

Fishermen will be saddened to hear of Lee Casebeer's sudden death last Saturday evening. Lee, a true gentleman sportsman, was well known by ocean and freshwater fishermen as one of the few anglers who would stop his own fishing to help other less experienced fishermen. The 63-year-old sportsman had a history of heart trouble, but he served on various fish and game committees and fished often with his buddy, Dr. I. Tarantino. Casebeer credited "Doc" with saving his life once, when he had a pervious attack, but Saturday night Tarantino was too late. Lee Casebeer will be missed but those of us who knew him will remember his friendship and kindness.

Good news for freshwater enthusiasts: Lower Otay reservoir opens March 5 with fishing days, Wednesdays and weekends. El Capitan is set for a March 20 opening for Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. Lower Otay will probably be swamped with fishermen in search of a lake record because of reported 15-pound-plus Florida bass lurking in the tules. El Capitan is expected to be slow at first, picking up as the weather and water temperatures warm.

Catfish pulled a switch at Lake Murray. Two channel catfish one 16½-pounds and the other a measly 12½-pounds struck cheese dangled by Don Bemich of San Diego. Bemich expected a trout dinner but he settled for fillet of catfish. Bill Stark, 4708 La Jolla Dr., took a trout limit at Murray fishing from shore at Padre Point. Both Murray and Miramar reservoirs will receive 800 pounds of catchable trout on Friday.

San Vicente will close for the season on March 2. There's still time to get in on the fervent bass action and during the last few days fishermen have also been checking in with good channel catfish and bluegill strings. Harry Vance and L. Mitchem used cut bonito, trapping 15 channel catfish total weight 27 pounds. A fine bluegill catch was taken by Maggie and Glen Paggett, 5451 Imperial Ave., from a boat in the Kimball Arm area of the lake. The Paggett's 32 bluegill weighed 18 pounds and all were caught on redworms.

FISHING — Allow wooly worms and nymphs to sink deeply and work them with a slow, twitching action.

A Seat In The Dark

By DAVID E. GREGSON

"The Fifth Symphony is grandiloquent work. Its declarative blandness and abecedarian illation are accretive rather than inductive, but paradoxically these qualities contribute to the impression of pervading grandeur."

I quote these lines from a Los Angeles Philharmonic program note by Nicolas Slonimsky in order to show those readers who complained about my phrase, "Brechtian didacticism," that I am relatively guiltless of pedantic word-droppng. I can assure you that the rest of Mr. Slonimsky's prose style is equally elucidating. He says the symphony leads "to the apotheosis in triumphant eschatological B flat major." Bruckner, he tells us, had "the most ardous time in gaining recognition, treading per aspera but never arriving ad astra." How do you like them there apples?

The Bruckner Fifth was a featured work on the Philharmonic program last week, (in Los Angeles), a program which included the Mozart "Concerto No. 27 in B flat major," Fou Ts'ong, pianist. The conductor of both works was Eugen Jochum. His reading of the symphony was all one would expect from this Bruckner expert. Orchestral balances were superb and dynamic values received the most stylish treatment. The Philharmonic once again proved itself one of the world's leading orchestras.

The symphony, to put it mildly, is rather long. Before its hour and a half duration was spent, many members of the audience got up and left. I watched them with a mixture of scorn and envy. Those who stayed to the end (the majority, believe it or not), gave the work a screaming ovation. Jochum who looks like a kindly, white-haried German grandfather, took repeated vigorous bows.

Jochum's vitality on the podium belies his years. His maturity, however, was reflected in a magnificent performance of the Mozart concerto. Clarity of line and delicate phrasing distinguished both conductor and soloist. Ts'ong is a first-rate Mozartian.

Another young piano soloist, Tamas Vasary, appeared with the San Diego Symphony recently. Though his Chopin (Concerto No. 1 in E Minor, Op. 11) seemed stylistically right, it was difficult to hear the instrument over the orchestra. My seats were not ideal for judging this concert, as I was in the fifth row of the orchestra, as far left as one can be. But friends in other parts of the theater said they could not hear Vasary either, so the conductor may take the blame for drowning him out.

He certainly can take the blame for programing Debussy's "Three Nocturnes" and not even bothering to turn to the audience to explain why he was planning to play only two of them. (There was no women's chorus available for "Sirenes.") Yet the "Fetes" was nicely done and the "Nuages" seemed right except for some faulty balances at the beginning.

The program concluded with Stravinsky's "Firebird" in a fairly solid performance.

As a snobbish Bach purist, I can offer no comment on the Rosenthal orchestration of the "St. Anne" Prelude and Fugue. I noticed during the performance of this piece, however, that Bach's genius shines through no matter what is done to him.

Park bill introduced by Stull

Legislation creating underwater parks as part of California's state park system was introduced into the state legislature this week by Assemblyman John Stull.

The bill would assign the responsibility of locating such marine preserves to the state Park Commission. Stull said areas to be developed would include those marine environmental areas outstanding for scenic, ecological, geological and natural scientific values.

"Certain of the areas," Stull said, "would be preserved in their original or natural condition and other areas would be developed for appropriate recreational uses, including skin diving and fishing.

"My intention in creating such areas," he said, "is to preserve some of our outstanding aquatic areas for future generations." Stull said if the bill is approved, the Parks Commission would work out details with the state Lands Commission on specific locations.

The San Diego lawmaker said three such areas are now planned for marine parks—in San Diego County, from Penasquites Lagoon at Del Mar south to the Submarine Canyon in La Jolla, Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park off Monterey coast, and Salt Point on the Marin coast.

Membership drive set by concert group

The annual membership campaign of the San Diego Community Concert Association will be held tomorrow through Saturday or until the civic theater is sold out, whichever comes first.

Attendance at programs sponsored by the association is limited to members. No individual admissions are sold for any of the performances.

The 1969-70 season will include the Roger Wagner Chorale, Spanish pianist Alicia de Larrocha, the National Ballet of Washington, and two other attractions to be announced.

Adult memberships in the non-profit Association cost $8 per year; for students under 21 the cost is $4. Information may be obtained by calling 295-0049. Dues may be mailed directly to P. O. Box 1524, San Diego 92112.

Gallison heads banking group

H. Bailey Gallison, advertising manager for Security Pacific National Bank, San Diego Division, was installed as president of the Southern California Bank Advertisers Association recently at its regular monthly meeting at the University Club in Los Angeles.

The association is composed of bank advertising, public relations and marketing personnel representing more than 100 banks in 14 Souther California counties.

TO PERFORM

Violinist Takako Nishizaki, a former child prodigy in Tokyo, will play a varied classical program at San Diego State College Tuesday. The concert will start at 8 p.m. in Montezuma Hall, Aztec Center. Tickets will be on sale the night of the concert at the Aztec Center box office. General admission is $1.50. San Diego State faculty, staff and alumni will pay 75 cents. San Diego State students may attend free.

Motorcyclists need special licenses under newly passed regulations

State Motor Vehicles Director Verne Orr has stressed that any person who renews his California driver's license and intends to drive a two-wheel motorcycle on a public highway must bring a motorcycle to a DMV office and show he can operate it.

Exempted are persons whose licenses already are endorsed for motorcycle driving.

Because there was no such thing as a motorcycle driver's license—known as a Class 4 license—until the California legislature changed the law last year, many of the state's 350,000 registered motorcycles are being driven by persons who got their licenses by showing proficiency behind the steering wheel of an automobile, said Orr. However, during the next four years, as licenses come up for routine renewal, each person who wants to operate a two-wheel motorcycle or motor driven cycle must prove to a DMV examiner that he can do safely. If he has been handling a motorcycle for quite a while this should be no problem, said Orr.

An applicant's first Class 4 license or Class 4 endorsement on a regular license renewal must be earned by passing both a special written test concerning safe motorcycle use and a skill test on a motorcycle, Orr said.

On subsequent license renewals the motorcycle driver, like the car or truck driver, will be required to pass only the visual and written test unless there is a special reason to give him a road test as well, Orr concluded.

Anyone operating a motorcycle, motor-driven cycle or minibike on California's public roads must be licensed to do so.

READERS' VIEWS

He has a problem on immigrant status

Editor, the Sentinel:

I read with interest Sarah Congdon's recent article on the new immigration law and its effect.

The new legislation brought into effect last July with regard to immigration was no doubt necessary and justified in view of the influx of people into this country prior to that time.

However, despite the fairness of the numerical ceilings and trade-availability categories, etc., there still remains one aspect which requires re-evaluation by the government, to my way of thinking. This is the ruling which states that the prospective immigrant must obtain pre-established employment (together with all the other necessary qualifications, of course) before he can be granted a visa.

I am a draftsman by trade, normally resident in Canada and currently on vacation in California. Despite numerous job applications by mail from Canada and several interviews here in San Diego area, I have not progressed one step since last May, when I initiated my visa application.

Employers are interested, but loath to sign the necessary petition due to my inability to offer a firm starting date. That is the situation: No visa, no job. No job, no visa. Stalemate.

Any reasonable suggestions would be welcome in my quest for a signed petition by an employer and consequently the issuing of a visa.

Calls for halt to 'interpreting'

Editor, the Sentinel:

Until educators, journalists, psychologists and anthropologists refrain from "interpreting" the Mexican-American, and we are contacted to write articles expressing our own feelings and opinions and commissioned to gather information about our own community, misinformation will continue to be amassed and accepted by the majority community as valid and the communication gap will enlarge, and God knows how much more alienated the majority and the minority community will become.

I feel sure no conscientious American wants a polarization of communities, and that if Americans were aware of the totality of misinformation on the Mexican-American they would be quite unhappy.

I hope that in the future the news media will look for talented people in the Mexican-American community to represent, that community so they will have a better frame of reference to write about Mexican-Americans.

Pack 272 has Jeff Staggs as honored guest

More than 125 persons including Cubs of Pack 272, families and friends, gathered Thursday evening at St. Columba Church for the pack's annual Blue and Gold Banquet.

Cubmaster Dr. R. Bruce Brown, introduced the guest speaker, Jeff Staggs of the San Diego Chargers. Other honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Lynch, institutional representative; Father Kelly, St. Columba School; Sister Redempta of Stella Maris Academy, and Gerald Thiele.

Don Fletcher, awards chairman, presented denner awards to Tommy Blatnich and Mike Trollinger and assistant denner awards to Greg Carlson and Tommy Dietz. Webelos awards were presented to Doug Farmer, Daniel Miller, Tommy Fletcher and Dennis Schlentz.

Despite it all, she hangs on to her purse

A La Jolla woman suffered a fractured wrist Thursday night when she was knocked down by a purse snatcher who rammed her with his head, police reported.

The victim was Mrs. Claudia Crump, a private nurse who lives at 1107 Prospect St. Officers said Mrs. Crump was en route home and was walking through a parking lot in the 7900 block on Ivanhoe Avenue when she was attacked.

The assailant, about 25 and wearing short, neat hair, approached her, lowered his head and rammed her in the stomach.

Although she broke her left wrist when she fell Mrs. Crump managed to foil the robber's attempts to wrest the purse from her left hand.

Wilson named to two posts

Assemblyman Pete Wilson (R-San Diego) has been appointed to the Governor's Interagency Council on Drug Abuse by Assembly Speaker Bob Monagan.

Wilson, who will represent the lower House on the council, was also appointed this week by Lt. Governor Ed Reinecke as chairman of a subcommittee of the Commission on the Californias to deal with problems on narcotics confronting California and Mexico.

Wilson said he was pleased with the challenge offered by both groups which have as their primary objective to reduce and hopefully eliminate the increasing rate of drug usage by youngsters.

The Interagency Council, which is sponsored by both the state and the California Medical Association, is a volunteer group composed of interested persons from both the public and private sector in California, including representatives of law enforcement, rehabilitation, public health and education as well as the Legislature.

Wilson said the council, which he helped form last year, will serve as a "clearing house for the exchange of information on the drug problem."

"The council," he said "will be an advisory body to eliminate duplicate programs and to develop policies in combating drug abuse with a strong emphasis on our youth."

Jaycees pick Pete Wilson

State Assemblyman Pete Wilson, 35, was named Outstanding Young Man of the Year Thursday by the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Wilson, a Republican, was elected to the Assembly in 1966 when he was 32. While a freshman lawmaker became the minority whip.

Wilson, who is active here in the YMCA and the Navy League, works as an attorney. He was presented a trophy on which his name will be inscribed along with all other winners of Outstanding Young Man award. A perpetual plaque bearing his name, will be on display at the city administration center.

OBITUARIES

MRS. AIMEE TUCKER

Funeral services were held yesterday for Mrs. Aimee Tucker, 89, formerly of 4275 Olney St., Pacific Beach. A 65-year resident of San Diego and Imperial counties, she died in a hospital Saturday.

Mrs. Tucker, a native of New Jersey, was a department manager at the old Hamilton Fine Foods store in downtown San Diego for many years. Her husband, Arthur (Tuck) Tucker, who died in 1942, came here in the late 1880s and operated a livery stable in San Diego. Later, he owned a Calexico hotel. The couple returned here in 1924.

Mrs. Tucker was a past president of the Altar Society at Our Lady of Angels Church and was active in the Third Order of St. Francis, San Diego Woman's Club, the Thursday Club and the Brotherhood of American Yeoman.

Surviving are two daughters, including Mrs. Marie Subilosky of San Diego; nine grandchildren, and 10 great-grandchildren. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

MRS. MAYME WEAVER

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Mayme Weaver, 80, formerly of 3880 Greenwood Ave., Clairemont, a retired piano teacher and choir director who died Saturday in a hospital.

Mrs. Weaver, a native of Kansas, lived here 44 years. She was a former choir director of the old Central Methodist Church, Trinity Methodist Church and Chollas View Methodist Church. Where was the Pueblo? Maybe Navy didn't know California Senator George Murphy said this week that he doesn't think the Navy knew where the intelligence ship Pueblo was when she was captured by the North Koreans last year.

Murphy speaking at a Lincoln Day luncheon at the Bahia Hotel, said it is "strange circumstances" when the commander of a ship is not allowed in certain areas of his own vessel—referring to the ship's intelligence center from which Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher was banned.

Murphy said the United States had only seven "outmoded fighter "aircraft available in South Korea at the time of the Pueblo's capture to tangle with more than 50 Russian MIG's that the North Koreans had.

"The least that this nation can do," Murphy said, "is to provide our fighting men the finest, best, most modern protection we can."

The state's senior senator also said that:

● He hopes San Diego will become the home of the permanent Summer White House.

● A bombing halt by the United States was not necessary to start peace talks with the North Vietnamese.

● The nation needs a capable military establishment, "not to make war, but to keep the peace," and that civilians should let military experts make decisions in military matters.

● Dissent is acceptable, but that "troublemakers and revolutionaries should be exposed and treated for what they are."

Murphy spoke to more than 550 persons at a luncheon sponsored by the county Republican Central Committee and Republican Associates.

town talk

By MARY FISHEL

WASHINGTON, D.C. . . . or San Diego (Pacific Beach) California? Which do you prefer? An interesting question since Washington is such an exciting, beautiful, city and San Diego is certainly beautiful with a great climate . . . right now my heart is divided but it doesn't have anything to do with the Inaugural! Well, anyhow, Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh and their daughter, Eileen (he is manager of Crystal Pier) have just returned from the Inaugural, where especially Eileen was impressed with all the celebrities she met such as . . . her escort, Jim Ayers (Agricultural Department), Connie Francis, Tony Bennett, Hines and Hines and Dad (two sons and a father), Nixon's two daughters, Patricia and Julie, David Eisenhower (son of the General) and on and on. Matter of fact, she was even pictured on television dancing with Hugh O'Brian and her brother and sister in law, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Walsh saw it on television in their home in University City.

Eileen declared the parade with the three astronauts was most impressive AND the National Art Gallery. Two years ago, Eileen and her two sisters Mary and Noreen toured Europe (quite extensively) and she was more impressed by the National Art Gallery in Washington than any she saw in Europe!

Eileen and her parents stayed with her Uncle Matt Kane, a personal friend of Richard Nixon . . . also known as owning the most authentic Irish pub in the United States in Washington called "Bit of Ireland."

But when they got home, the Walsh family were even more surprised . . . Crystal Pier (one of the oldest in San Diego) had been written up in the February 2 edition of "California Living" (Los Angeles Examiner) by Nicholas Volpe . . . complete with a very nice picture of the pier.

Volpe said "On—giant tooth-pick legs

stepped deep in sand
the pier rocked to the beat of the constant wave

glimpse thru the pilings
I caught
while the comings and goings of waves beat on

. . . a kind of reminiscence of a dream gone astray

. . . for there on the horizon fast-anchored
in the pale moonlight
(the pier arrowed straight to it) was THE city high walled ringed invincible to all strifes conflicts prejudices dishonors

disloyalties

. . . was I dreaming in a dream?

for crystal clear
I thought
I saw the City of Friendship"

A beautiful poem . . . a beautiful thought "The City of Friendship" and Crystal Pier for those of use who know it well, so aptly and beautifully described!

* * *

OLD HOMES . . . are beautiful too, the same as Crystal Pier, and so San Diego's "Save Our Heritage Committee" . . . Gilbert House at 139 Fir Street is the first on the agenda to try to be saved.

The committee has a 60 day option period in which to raise the money for moving and finding a location on which to place the house. So . . . approximately 2600 invitations have been sent out to members of the city administration, historical groups and civic leaders to attend a Victorian Tea Sunday (three to five) at Gilbert House.

Mrs. Walker Fillius of La Jolla is the chairman, Mrs. Frank Evenson of Point Loma, co-hostess with Robert Miles Parker, chairman man of the Save Our Heritage Committee.

Tea and sherry punch will be served . . . valet parking provided . . . Victorian furniture donated and hostesses will be in Victorian dress. A string of woodwind quartet will provide the musical background in keeping with the historical significance of the music room.

"CALIFORNIA LIVING"—Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh and their daughter, Eileen attended the Inaugural Ball in Washington D.C., but returned home recently to find a surprise in "California Living" (Los Angeles Herald-Examiner) about Crystal Pier. Mr. Walsh is the manager of the pier, a well-known landmark in San Diego.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Boaz, Sr., formerly of Clairemont, now residing in La Mesa. His mother is Mrs. Marguerite Berman of Los Angeles.

The Rev. Robert Young of the Church of New Jerusalem officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length Victorian style gown of antique white satin brocade. Her gown featured a scoop neck, long sleeves and a long train and her illusion veil was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible and a bouquet of white gladioli and narcissus.

Miss Eleanor Best was maid of honor. Miss Andria Boaz, sister of the bride, was the only bridesmaid. Miss Best wore an Empire style gown of shocking pink tulle with a scoop neck and long sleeves. She carried a bouquet of pink daisies.

The bridesmaid wore a Victorian style gown of dark burgundy velvet. She also carried pink daisies.

Bryant Morris served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Irving Ross and James Wilson.

A reception for about 75 friends and relatives was held at the Galley West Restaurant at Marineland following the ceremony.

Among guests attending the wedding from San Diego were Mr. and Mrs. William Boaz Jr., of Clairemont, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Papanos and their son William from San Diego and Mrs. Gladys Sheehan of San Diego.

The new Mrs. Berman was graduated from Clairemont High School and attended Mesa Junior College. She was a PSA stewardess for three years prior to her marriage. Her husband is a law student at UCLA and is a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

Following a wedding trip to Palm Springs the couple will reside in Marina Del Rey, Calif.

Invitations in mail

Invitations in green and blue to emphasize an underwater theme have been mailed this week for Fashion Lab III 1969, the annual luncheon fashion show of the Woman's Auxiliary to the San Diego County Medical Society to be held at 11 a.m. March 11 in the Bahia Hotel.

Mrs. Edward A. Ten Eyck of La Jolla is chairman of this year's event.

Your children, in their formative years, need to:
. . . . LEARN RESPONSIBILITY
. . . . LEARN TO USE INITIATIVE, IN THIS WORLD OF COMPETITION.
. . . . LEARN TO MEET PEOPLE
. . . . LEARN THE VALUE OF A DOLLAR

The Sentinel needs young businessmen from 10 to 12½ years of age, to bring this community newspaper to you and your neighbors.

From this first business experience these youngsters learn invaluable lessons that help them in the future

We of the Sentinel work closely with these youngsters and you, their parents. We too are parents, therefore we make sure the problems faced by these youngsters are not beyond their abilities, particularly with our help and your help.

If you have a youngster in this age bracket, call the Circulation Department of this paper, 274-3212, and let us discuss our carrier program with you and your child.

Record year recorded for Beach 'n' Bay

Beach 'n' Bay Realty, a California corporation formed two years ago, reported at a recent board meeting that it produced a gross of about $5 million in 1968.

Although the corporation is young, the company has been in existence for 20 years.

The greatest number of listings taken and sold, and the largest amount of sales were made by the husband-and-wife team of Frank and Maggi Gregson. They totaled $1,879,250 for the year. The largest single sale of the year was consummated by Don Wiedmann to the California Teachers' Association for $380,500.

William P. Osborne is president of the corporation. Donald A. Wiedmann and Frank C. Gregson are vice presidents, Margaret H. Gregson secretary and Arvid L. Steen-ken director. The staff totals seven brokers and five salesmen.

Society initiates

The Honor Society at Marston Junior High Schoo will conduct an initiation ceremony Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium. About 60 new members will be inducted.
